Tumbleweed

She's a tumbleweed, nature's humble seed

I don't need this traveling life

She can disappear let the wind take her

Sandy heels back

Home

Home is where she's rolling

Home

Home is where she's rolling

She's a tumbleweed, never did believe in walking on someone else's footprints

She may settle down once she finds the ground that suits her best

Home

Home is where she's rolling

Home

Home is where she's rolling

Baby

Don't have answers to your questions

I've gotta keep going I've gotta keep travelin'

Still you're pulling on my pant leg

Stop that whining; your complaining ricochets through my brain gotta keep traveling

You have pushed me out the door

But try not to cry 'til I'm down the road a ways

Couldn't stand to see another mopey gaze

You stick out your lip, say you're coming down with a case of loneliness

Got a sickness in your head but you don't need me to cure it

Oh I don't find you very easy to deal with

No I don't find you very easy to deal with

You should work on it

And try not to cry 'til I'm down the road a ways

Couldn't stand to see another frowning face

You puff out your lip say you're coming down with a case of loneliness

But the sickness is in your head and I can't fix that

Can't expect me to fix that

Baby

So try not to cry for me

Baby

Try not to cry for me

Baby

Try not to cry for me

Baby

Furnace

What you trying to prove?

Arms crossed over in the corner howling at a drunken moon

Slipping in the sky

You can surly sympathize

Relying on the clapboard to support your curved spine

I just want to help hold you up

I just want to feel that I'm in use

I can rust here with the furnace

Let me stay and keep you warm

Wish that I could still be unaware

Wish that I had listened to my mother

I will rust here with the furnace

You've ensnared my heart, my heart can take it

I just want to help hold you up

I just want to feel that I'm in use

We can rust here with the furnace

Let me stay and keep you warm

Let me stay and keep you warm

Let me stay and keep you warm

Bad Shark

Left your mark, harpoon through my heart

You bad shark you do me harm

You held my breath, slowly sinking in

You are fall too dangerous

You make me want to take a chance

You make me want to take a chance
Smell my blood
Twist my body up
Tangled in the kelp, anchored down
You caught my ankle
Say what's your angle?
You make me want to take a chance
You make me want to give in to your trance
Let your mark harpoon through my heart
You bad shark you do me harm
You mess me and caress me
You bite me and you spite me
You hold me and you throw me away
You caught my ankle
Say what's your angle?
You make me want to take a chance
You make me want to give in to your trance
You make me want to take a chance
You make me want to give in to your trance

Warning Signs

(Ooh)
I can try to pretend that you're not in my memories
If the clouds were my hands I would smother the sun's beams
'Cause they shine like your smile and they warm me like you used to warm me
There were warning signs that I refused to read
(Ooh)

And I still hear you whisper (I still hear you whisper)
In the soft hiss of my record player (I still hear you whisper)
I still hear you whisper
That you will be gone in the morning
'Cause you said you need someone else who will love you completely
I could be someone else
I could change if you let me shine back into your eyes
I could swing you like a summer breeze
I know there were warning signs that I refused to see
There were warning signs that I refused to see

Alice Unraveled

Sunday evening ah...
We stopped moving for a moment to stretch out our shallow breaths
You convinced me in your torn up jeans you took down my hair
Heart beat on heart beat
Time
Stuttered
Hands in a basket weave
My grip weakened
But you unhinged me
Ah...
Unraveling these tousled thoughts elude me
Once the lights turned off
Something was lost ah...
But I couldn't see
With the lights turned off

Dynamite

I said hold on to your head there's no need to loose it yet
But you let loose your cannons once your thought's interrupted
Guess I shoulda seen it comin'
You're a constant eruption
Fuming like a kettle to the flame
Should be old news to me that you won't try and see my side
Should be old news to me your explosive words
You're dynamite
So I seal up my lips to keep my tongue at bay
You must always have your way
You've got lightening in your veins
I never know how to phrase
All my questions get you angry
Do I light your fuse?
Do I make you crazy
Oh I'm sure I do
Oh I'm sure that I do
You will never say so but I know
I know
I know that I do
You let loose your cannon's once your heart's interrupted
Oh shoulda seen it comin'
You let loose your cannon's once your heart's interrupted
Guess I shoulda seen it comin'

Five

Five PM the clouds are full of honey
Stretching down through the sky
Amber wrinkles running into purple painted words on panes of light
And I wish I could cry
But the wild wolves inside me just won't bite
I tried oh how I tried
I didn't know what I was getting into Five AM and I feel like a zombie
But it's safe 'cause you won't wait for a while Steppin' out the air simmers around me
Penciled words on printed lines were left where my head used to lye
So you wouldn't miss it
I couldn't say this in person
Couldn't watch your face

Mischief thief

Sacrifice your sweet advice
We might as well be waltzing in the dark
Tried to hold you in my arms
You are the sunlight on the rafters
Fleeting as a firefly
Pulsing on the pillow wind
Blythe hands cup the scruff of my neck and you're gone
You deceive me mischief thief I can't compete with your love
No don't leave me incomplete I can't compete with your love
Had to let you in my heart

A frenzied waltz spin me in the darkness folded over my shoulder

You are the shadow of a star

You are the shadow of a star

You are the sunlight on the rafters

Clatter Drum Song

How am I supposed to open up to you?

Drawing the curtains in this dusty room

Your blue wallpaper wrapped in grey

Where do you expect me to lay my head

When an inconsistent heart beats in your chest

Like a stone rollin' on the pavement

Clatter drum song

Kicked along

Stoned stumbling on the pavement

I have listened to your arguments I have tried to keep you going

But you don't need to hear it from me

Why would you erase a day I lent to you

A waive, a wink, a memory spent chewing on your knuckles

Those nervous habits get hard to control

And oh you don't know I notice

And oh you don't see me watching

You say "I have been so good lately,

Really, I promise."

But I have listened to your arguments

I have tried to keep you strong

But you don't want to hear it from me

Let Go

Let you go

Arms lined with snow

Cold and unfriendly

A heart left hibernating

Livin' on last years dreams

Oh oh I've said my peace

Let me go

Let me go

Let me go ooh

Disappear

If I should disappear

I would like to go out like a fire

I would like to go out like a flame

I would like to go out like a fire ashes and smoke rings

I would like to burn out very quickly

Flicker for an instant and waive goodbye

I would like to go out very quiet

Ashes kiss the horizon

I would like to go out like a fire

I would like to go out like a flame

I would like to go out like a fire

Ashes and smoke rings
